CONSENT TO ACT AS A RESEARCH SUBJECT

Victor Ferreira, Ph.D., is conducting a research study, sponsored by the National Institutes of Health, to find out more about how language-processing mechanisms work. There will be approximately 75 participants in the study. If you agree to be in this study, you will produce language (i.e., write and/or talk) and respond to stimuli (i.e., press buttons) when shown written or spoken statements or pictures. Participation will include multiple language production tasks, the total duration of which lasting up to 2 hours. For some studies you may be asked to provide spoken responses, and we may ask for your permission to record these responses. In these cases, you will be asked to provide consent on a separate consent form for audio recording. If you agree, your audible responses may be recorded.

Participation in this study may involve some added risks or discomfort. These include potential for boredom and fatigue. Other risks are no greater than those experienced in everyday life.

In consideration for your time, you will receive remuneration for your participation in this research at a rate of approximately $10 per hour. You will receive payment through Amazon's Mechanical Turk.

There may or may not be any direct benefit to you from these procedures. The investigator, however, may learn more about how language processing works, and thereby be able to contribute to development of medical, therapeutic, and technological issues related to language use.

If you have questions about this research or research-related problems, you may reach Victor Ferreira, Ph.D., at 858-534-6303 or vferreira@ucsd.edu. You may call the Human Research Protections Program Office at (858) 246-4777 to inquire about your rights as a research subject or to report research-related problems.

Participation in research is entirely voluntary. You may refuse to participate or withdraw or refuse to answer specific questions in an interview or on a questionnaire at any time without penalty or loss of benefits to which you are entitled. If you decide that you no longer wish to continue in this study, you will be required to inform study personnel via email at vferreira@ucsd.edu. Your data will then be deleted from the study and your participation cancelled without penalty.

The PI may remove you from the study without your consent if the PI feels it is in your best interest or the best interest of the study. You may also be withdrawn from the study if you do not follow the instructions given by the study personnel.

Research records will be kept confidential to the extent allowed by law. As with all research, there is also the possibility of loss of confidentiality. Information from study participants will be identified by a study number. The database which relates the study number to a specific subject will be maintained in the study coordinator's office.

You should print or save a copy of this consent form now to keep for your records. You may also request a copy from the experimenters at a later date. By checking the box below, you indicate that you agree to participate.

☐ I agree to participate.
